16. On the basis of the Information, only personal data whose processing is proportionate, relevant and limited to what is necessary for the defined purposes (data minimization principle) is strictly processed; i.e. the indication of the categories of personal data to be processed does not imply that they will be processed in their entirety. 17. The Controller processes the personal data provided by the Data Subject. The Controller processes personal data originating from publicly accessible sources, in particular personal data listed in public registers and published by the Data Subject on social networks.

Categories of recipients and third parties

18. Personal data processed by the Controller will be disclosed or made available to the following categories of recipients:
- 18.1. person – processor, who provides storage and backup of data on the Website for the Controller;

19. The direct transfer of personal data to so-called third countries is not carried out and is not intended; this does not affect the transfer of personal data via open window transfer in the context of browsing and capturing the content of the Websites in third countries.

Retention Period of Personal Data

20. At the latest, the period of statutory retention of personal data in the registry and archiving records is ten (10) years from the date of completion of their active processing (achievement of the purpose of the processing of personal data).

Automated decision making, including profiling

21. The Controller does not use automated individual decision-making or profiling when processing the personal data of Data Subjects for the stated purpose.

Use of the Website, access data

22. The Website may be used by Data Subjects for purely informational purposes in general without the need to disclose the identity of the Data Subject. When loading individual pages and subpages of the Website in this sense, only the access data necessary for the display of the Website will be provided to the Controller's hosting provider. These data are as follows:

- 22.1. the type, language and version of the web browser;
- 22.2. the operating system in use;
- 22.3. the hostname of the accessing end device;
- 22.4. IP address;
- 22.5. the website from which the request to view the Website comes from;
- 22.6. the content of the request (specific page);

It is necessary to process the IP address for the duration of the session (Website browsing). The legal basis for such processing is Article 6(1)(f) of the GDPR.
24. Access data is not used to identify individual users and is not linked to other data sources. Access data shall be deleted if they are no longer necessary to achieve the purpose of their processing and are not contained in the registry records pursuant to point 20 of the Information. In the case of data collection for the provision of the Website, this moment is understood to be the moment when the session (browsing of the Website) is terminated by the Data Subject.
25. IP addresses are stored in log files to ensure the functionality of the Website. This data is also used to optimize the Website and to secure the Controller's information systems. The data is not evaluated for marketing purposes in this context. The data is generally deleted after seven days. In individual cases, longer processing is possible due to the legitimate interests of the Controller. In this case, the IP address is anonymised, so that it is no longer possible to associate the Data Subject who opened the Website with it.
26. The collection of data for the purpose of providing the Website and the processing of data in log files is necessary for the operation of the Website. Since the lawfulness of the processing is determined pursuant to point 23 of the Information, the Data Subject has the right to object to such processing. If the objection is evaluated as justified, the processing will be stopped or modified, or the Controller will point out the legitimate grounds on the basis of which the processing will continue.

Cookies

27. Cookies are files stored in the browser of the end device used by the Concerned Persons. They contain Website access information (information on using the Website by the Data Subject). Cookies are small text files with sequences of numbers that are stored in the cache of the browser being used. Cookies do not become part of the computer system and cannot run programs. They serve to make the Websites more user-friendly. The use of cookies may be technically necessary or may serve other purposes (e.g. analysis/evaluation of the use of the Websites).

Technically necessary cookies

28. Some elements of the Websites require that the internet browser in which the Websites are opened is identified when you navigate to other pages as well. Cookies process data relating to language settings, items in the online shopping cart and login data.
29. User data collected by means of technically necessary cookies are not processed for the creation of user profiles. The Websites also uses cookies storing session IDs, which allow different browser requests to be associated with a common session. Session cookies are essential for the use of the Websites. Thanks to these files, it is possible to recognize the end device if the Data Subject returns to the Websites. This file is primarily used to recognize the Data Subject on repeated visits to the Websites, as long as the Data Subject has a registered account on the Websites. The legal basis for such processing is Article 6(1)(f) of the GDPR. Session cookies are stored to make the use of the Websites easier, more attractive and more efficient. Session cookies are deleted the moment the Data Subject logs out or turns off the end device (computer).
30. Most browsers are pre-set to automatically accept cookies. The Data Subject may object to the processing of the Data Subject's data via cookies. By changing the settings in your browser, you can disable or restrict the transmission of cookies, but in this case, the use of the Internet, including the Websites, may be more difficult or limited and you may not be able to use all the functions of the Websites. Cookies that are already stored can be deleted at any time.

Technically unnecessary cookies

31. Cookies are used on the Websites to enable an analysis of user browsing behavior. Cookies store and process data related to the search terms entered the frequency of page views and the use of the Website's features.
32. Technically unnecessary cookies serve to make the use of the Websites more efficient and attractive. The legal basis for such processing of personal data is Article 6(1)(a) of the GDPR on the basis of the consent given when accessing the Website. Technically unnecessary cookies are automatically deleted after a certain period of time, which may vary depending on the specific file.
33. The Data Subject may object to the processing of Personal Data of Data Subjects by means of technically unnecessary cookies. If the Data Subject does not wish to use cookies, it is possible to revoke their consent pursuant to paragraph 33 of the Information at any time on the relevant sub-page of the Website.
34. Web pages use HTML5 storage objects that are stored on the end device being used. They process the necessary data regardless of the browser used and do not have an automatic expiry date. These files serve to make the use of the Websites more efficient and attractive.
35. The Data Subject may object to the processing of Personal Data of Data Subjects by means of flash cookies. The transmission of flash cookies can be prevented by changing the settings of the end device or browser. It is also possible to install an add-on or extension in the browser you are using if the browser supports such, which ensures that selected types of cookies are not stored automatically. The use of flash cookies can also be prevented by opening the browser in anonymous browsing mode if the browser you are using supports such a mode. Flash cookies and browsing history can be manually deleted at any time.

At the moment of sending the e-mail message to the Controller's address, data in the range of the IP address and the date or time of the registration are also processed.
37. The legal basis for such processing is Article 6(1)(f) of the GDPR or Article 6(1)(b) of the GDPR if there is a contact for the purpose of concluding a contract.
38. In this context, the data is not disclosed to third parties. The data is processed solely for the purpose of processing the request. The related data are deleted when the processing is no longer necessary or is limited to compliance with the applicable statutory archiving and registry obligations.
39. The Data Subject has the right to object at any time to the processing of the Data Subject's personal data for the purposes of contact requests. This may be the case if the processing is not necessary for the performance of a contract concluded between the Controller and the Data Subject. However, in such a case, it may not be possible to continue processing the Data Subject's requests. In the event of a reasoned objection, the processing will be stopped or modified, or the legitimate grounds of the Data Controller will be pointed out, on the basis of which the processing of the Data Subject's personal data will be continued.

Processing and transfer of personal data for contractual purposes

40. Personal data of Data Subjects are processed if necessary for the initiation, establishment and performance of a legal transaction concluded between the Controller and the Data Subject. The legal basis for processing, in this case, is Article 6(1)(b) of the GDPR.
41. After the purpose of the contract has been achieved (performance of the contract), the personal data are blocked for further processing or deleted, unless the Controller is entitled to process the data on the basis of another legal ground.
42. The transfer of the Data Subject's personal data occurs if:

  - 42.2. a subcontractor or person involved in the performance of obligations used by the Data Controller solely in connection with the provision of the proposals or services requested by the Data Subject requires such data (these auxiliary persons are unless expressly stated otherwise, entitled to process the data only to the extent necessary for the provision of the proposals or services);
  - 42.3. there is an enforceable official or judicial decision;
  - 42.4. this obligation is imposed by the regulations;
  - 42.5. the processing is necessary to protect the vital interests of the subjects or another natural person; or
  - 42.6. the Controller is entitled or even obliged to pursue overriding legitimate interests for the transfer of personal data.
43. Personal data of the Data Subject will not be sold to other persons, companies or other entities unless the Data Subject expressly consents to such sale. The legal basis for such processing is Article 6(1)(a) of the GDPR.

The completed application may be sent electronically to any of the E-mail addresses listed in the Information or paper form to the address of the Controller's registered office.

Targeted advertising

44. The Controller reserves the right to process the e-mail address provided by the Data Subject in connection with the registration/order or reservation, in accordance with the regulations, for the purpose, during or after the performance of the contract, of sending content within the scope of relevant offers from the Controller's portfolio of goods, events organized by the Controller, technical information, sending the current catalog, questions regarding special requests, an overview of possible leisure activities.
45. The legal basis for such processing is Article 6(1)(f) of the GDPR. The aforementioned processing is carried out by the Controller in the context of customer service and for the purpose of improving the quality of the services provided. The personal data is deleted if the subscription to the newsletter is cancelled, but no later than two (2) years after the end of the contract.

Hosting

46. The Controller uses the hosting services of an external company to provide infrastructure and platform services, computing capacity, storage and database services, security and technical maintenance. In the performance of these services, all data necessary for the operation and use of the Websites is processed.

Third-Party Content

48. The Website contains third-party content such as videos, maps, RSS feeds or images from other websites. A prerequisite for the integration of third-party content is access to users' IP addresses, which is necessary for the display of the respective content.
49. In such provision of content, IP addresses may also be used for purposes other than the provision of content to the Websites, and the processing of IP addresses outside the territory of the member states of the European Union is not excluded.

Google ANALYTICS

50. The Controller uses the Google ANALYTICS service provided by Google on the Websites for the purpose of adapting the Websites to the interests of users. Google ANALYTICS uses cookies (see the Cookies section of this Information), which are stored on the end device and allow you to track your use of the Websites. The information generated about the use of the Websites is transmitted to a Google server in the United States of America, where it is further processed.
51. If the anonymisation of the IP address is activated on the Websites, Google will convert the IP address of the data subject still in the territory of the Member States of the European Union or other contracting states of the Agreement on the European Economic Area into an abbreviated form. Only in exceptional cases is the complete IP address sent to a Google server in the United States and abbreviated there as well. On the basis of the authorization granted by the Controller, Google uses this information to evaluate the use of the Websites, to compile reports on the activities on the Websites and to provide other services relating to the use of the Websites and the Internet.
52. The IP address obtained by Google in this way will not be combined by Google with any other personal data and, if the data collected relates to a specific person, the link is immediately excluded by the use of anonymisation and subsequently deleted.
53. The Google ANALYTICS service is used by the Controller for the purpose of analyzing and regularly improving the use of the Websites. The statistics collected allow us to improve the offer and make the Websites and the offers more interesting for users. In the exceptional cases where personal data
